EVENING COURSES 2013-14

REPUTATIONS III: FEMALE ICONS

This Eight week lecture series will once again focus on the reputations of famous historical figures. This time the class will consider the reputations of female characters from classical, biblical, medieval, early modern and modern times, some well known and some not so well known, all of whom deserve the reputation as 'icon'. The women considered may include Mary Magdalene, Cleopatra, Joan of Arc and Elizabeth I – and many others.

Mondays 7–8 pm. Commences Monday 30 September 2013

DUBLIN AND WAR

This eight week lecture series will re-visit the history of Dublin, this time focusing on the city and war. Lecturers, all experts in their fields, will look at what happened in Dublin leading up to, during and after various wars or tumultuous events which may include the Viking attacks of the ninth century, the Anglo-Norman invasion in the twelfth century, the rebellion of 1641, the Cromwellian conquest, the 1798 rebellion, the Napoleonic Wars, World War I, the 1916 uprising and World War II. The lectures will examine the impact of these major national and international wars on the social, political and economic life in Dublin.

Mondays 7–8 pm. Commences Monday 27 January 2014
